

In Explorer, you can right-click the icon in the caption devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20031008-00

October 8, 2003

Raymond Chen

In Explorer, you can right-click the icon in the caption to get the context menu for the folder you are viewing. (Very handy for “Search” or “Command Prompt Here”.) Apparently not enough people realize this. In Windows 95, we tried to make it so most icons on the screen did something interesting when you right-clicked them.

Raymond Chen

Follow

