

But I have Visual Basic Professional

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20050930-10

September 30, 2005

Raymond Chen

Back in 1995, I was participating in a chat room on MSN on the subject of device driver development. One of the people in the chat room asked, “Can I write a device driver in Visual Basic?”

I replied, “Windows 95 device drivers are typically written in low-level languages such as C or even assembly language.”

Undaunted, the person clarified: “But I have Visual Basic Professional.”

Raymond Chen

Follow

