Don't underestimate the resourcefulness of people trying to be annoying

devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20060104-53

January 4, 2006

Raymond Chen

TechNet Magazine's January • February 2006 issue is now available, including a short article from me on the resourcefulness of people trying to be annoying. The issue also has an article on how to use the Volume Shadow Copy Service which I mentioned a few months ago. (And if you had read that posting from last September, you'll know why the Previous Versions Client is kept in a folder called "twclient". Try using that at a party to impress someone.)

Raymond Chen

Follow