

That guy in the neighborhood who has way too many Christmas lights

---

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20081202-01

December 2, 2008

Raymond Chen

Weekend America profiles Dominic Luberto, that guy with his house so covered in Christmas lights that you're sure it's a fire hazard or something.

I like how he pulls out the classic argument stopper when challenged that his display is too much. "Whoever comes against me – listen – goes against the kids." There you go. In the United States, all you have to do is accuse your opponent of hating children and you have instantly won the argument.

Raymond Chen

Follow

