Choziosi Loader: Multi-platform campaign delivering browser extension malware

In January 2022 a new malware campaign delivering chrome extensions was identified by @x3ph1. Originally this malware was named ChromeLoader and CS_Installer due to observed scheduled task names and filename. In February 2022 after some additional activity GDATA named this malware family Choziosi Loader.

Recently I revisited this threat actor and identified that Choziosi Loader is still actively targeting Mac OS users and Windows users. Furthermore Choziosi Loader delivers both malicious Chrome extensions and Safari extensions.

Campaign Overview

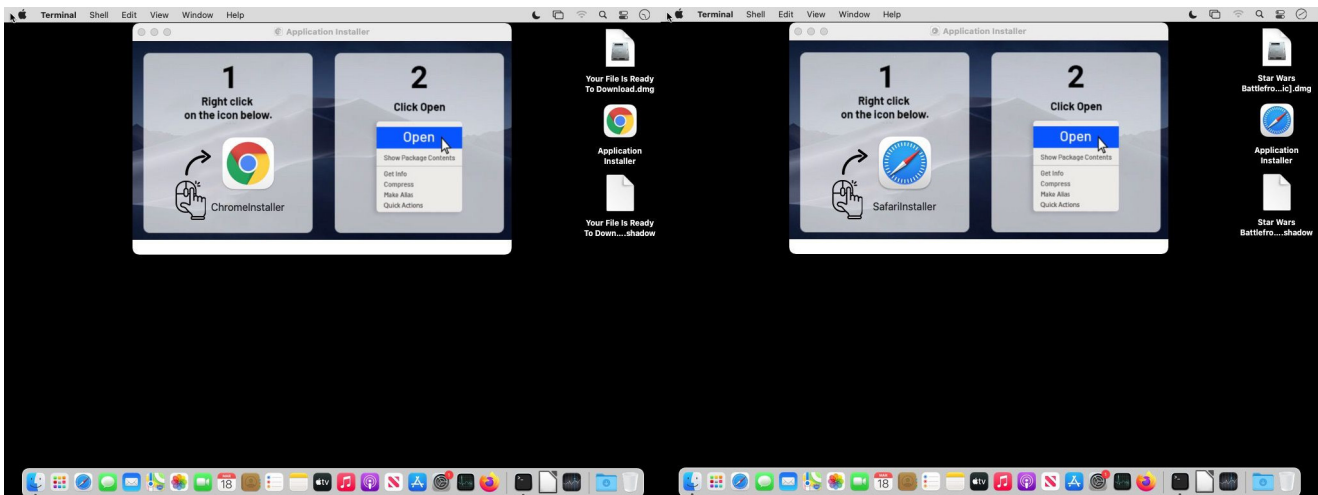

Mac OS Choziosi Loader Variant

In March of 2022 variants of Choziosi Loader targeting Mac OS users were uploaded to VirusTotal. Two recent examples of Choziosi Loader targeting Mac OS users are:

- Your File Is Ready To Download.dmg 121300cd7050da8a1debf684f03ba05a
- Star Wars Battlefront 2 [Xbox Classic].dmg a5625269e2d817258ad60044f853040e95d58b47

These downloads prompt the user to run malware titled “Application Installer”.

Persistence & Payload Delivery

Recent Choziosi Loader samples have been observed delivering Safari extensions as well as Chrome extensions. Two recent example installer scripts are:

- /Volumes/Application Installer/SafariInstaller.command 98e0e2863f411c6d2b7a5acabc9f234f
- /Volumes/Application Installer/ChromeInstaller.command
08dc5ad1b6cc00e129526b9054a06e4e

In this code snippet the threat actor command and control is funbeachdude[.]com. For the sake of this blog i've replaced value that with example_c2_server.com within the example.

sleep 1
XPATH=$(uuidgen)
unzip -o $BPATH/$IPATH.zip -d $BPATH/$XPATH &> /dev/null

The second half of the downloader script establishes persistency by appending plist data to the following locations:

- Safari Extensions:
/Library/LaunchAgents/com.extension.pop.plist
- Chrome Extensions:
/Library/LaunchAgents/com.chrome.extensionsPop.plist

Payload Analysis: Browser Extensions

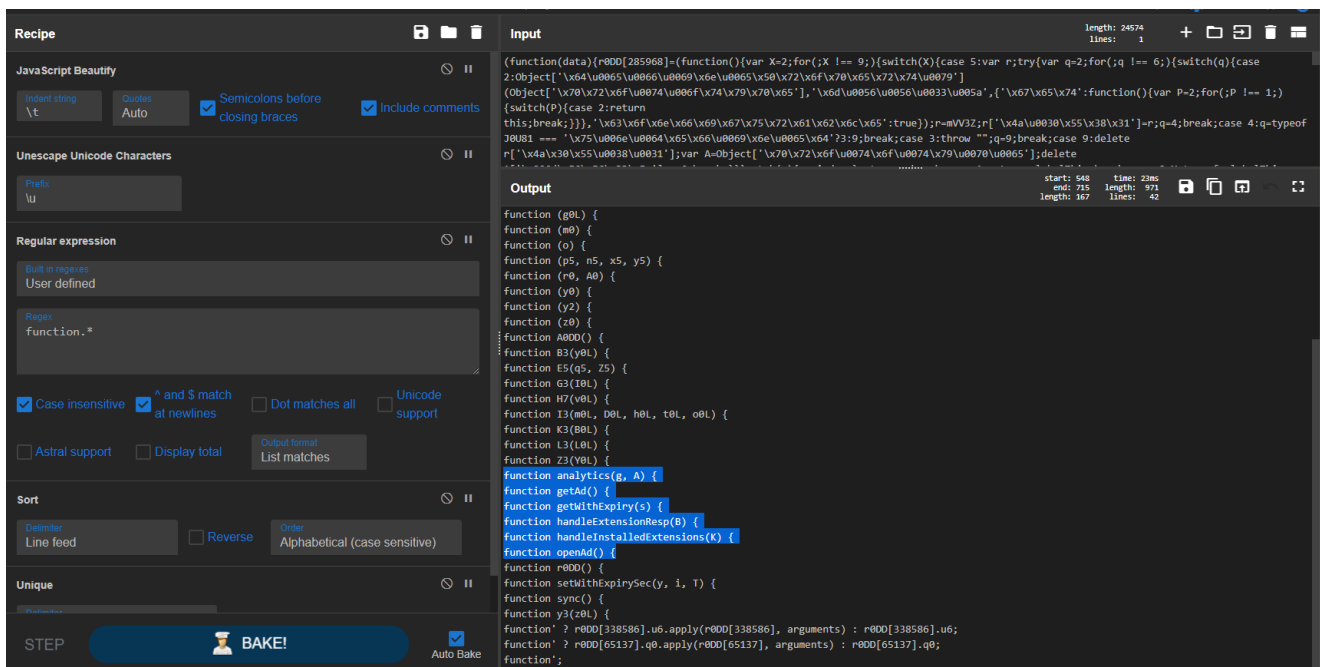

The final objective of this malware family is to install a browser extension that perform adware injection. By hunting on VirusTotal for files dropped by the .dmg installers I was able to find 16 recent ChoziosiLoader extensions.

The main component of the extension is an obfuscated file named background.js. This file is minified and encodes some stings with unicode. I leveraged the following cyberchef recipe to quickly analyze the JavaScript function present in background.js:

  { "op": "JavaScript Beautify",
    "args": ["\\t", "Auto", true, true] },
  { "op": "Unescape Unicode Characters",
    "args": ["\\u"] },
  { "op": "Regular expression",
    "args": ["User defined", "function.*", true, true, false, false, false, false,
"List matches"] },
  { "op": "Sort",
    "args": ["Line feed", false, "Alphabetical (case sensitive)"] },
  { "op": "Unique",
    "args": ["Line feed", false] }

JavaScript functions of interest:

- function analytics(g, A) {
- function getAd() {
- function getWithExpiry(s) {
- function handleExtensionResp(B) {
- function handleInstalledExtensions(K) {
- function openAd() {

2 <https://eandworldw.com/search?ext=saf>

Hello, I recently went to download a file and got a few warning. Expecting nothing I accepted it. Ever since then my Safari will refuse to close. Whenever I close it it will reopen immediately. I then realized whenever I searched on safari this url appears: <https://eandworldw.com/search?ext=saf>. I ran a virus search on my mac. Nothing was found.

Maybe an hour ago a window randomly opened to "raid shadow legends" without me doing a thing. As writing this. Another page showed up with an Ad for "opera gx".

Anyone experienced this type of virus before? I'm looking for any input here as Google searching gave 0 results what any of this means.
